HINA SHARES A BIG UPDATE ON HER FIGHT AGAINST 'MUCOSITIS' PAGE : 10

Every device in the world will have an Indian-made chip: PM

Greater Noida, Sep 11 (IANS) Our dream is that every device in the world will have an Indian-made chip and 100 per cent of electronic manufacturing should happen in the country, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said on Wednesday.

Inaugurating the 'Semicon India 2024' at the India Expo Mart in Greater Noida, PM Modi said the meaning of chips in India is not just limited to technology but is a medium to fulfil the aspirations of crores of citizens.

Underlining that India is a huge consumer of such chips, he emphasised that the world's finest digital public infrastructure (DPI) was built upon it.

"This small chip is doing big things to ensure last-mile delivery in India. Be it India's UPI, Rupay Card, Digi Locker or Digi Yatra, multiple digital platforms have become a part of the everyday life of the people of India," the Prime Minister noted.

Stressing that the country is set to play a big role in driving the global semiconductor industry, he highlighted that the government is offering 50 per cent financial support for setting up semiconductor manufacturing facilities, with state governments also playing a key role in this effort.

Because of these policies, he said, India has attracted investments worth more than Rs 1.5 lakh crore in a very short time and many more projects are in the pipeline.

PM Modi also revealed plans to establish a semiconductor research centre at the Indian Institute of Space Sciences, in collaboration with IITs, to produce not only high-tech chips for today but also next-generation chips. The Prime Minister also urged those who question India's focus on semiconductors to study the success of the Digital India Mission.

For the success of Digital India, the Prime Minister said that necessary reforms and infrastructure were initiated to make mobile handsets and data affordable in India.

With India's electronics sector now valued at over $150 billion, the Prime Minister outlined a larger goal to grow the country's electronics sector to $500 billion and create 6 million jobs by the end of this decade.

"Our goal is that 100 per cent of electronic manufacturing should happen in India. India will make semiconductor chips and the finished product too," said the Prime Minister.

Whether it is mobile manufacturing, electronics, or semiconductors, "our focus is clear - we want to build a world that doesn't stop or pause in times of crisis but keeps moving forward," PM Modi emphasised.

CM jibe at Modi visit to Jamshedpur, claims BJP will be routed in Haryana, J&K

Ranchi, September 11: Chief Minister Hemant Soren has taken a dig at the central government and Prime Minister Narendra Modi who is scheduled to visit Jamshedpur on September 15.

Addressing a function of Apki Yojana, Apki Sarkar, Apke Dwar at Godda district on Wednesday, Hemant Soren said that Manipur has been burning for a year due to communal strife.

"The dignity of sisters and daughters are being looted. But the head of the central government (Prime Minister) did not go there even once. These people have nothing to do with anyone. Today they cannot even go to Punjab and Haryana. Farmers are against them there. They will have to face defeat in the assembly elections of Jammu and Kashmir as well. Now their eyes are on Jharkhand," said Soren.

Hemant Soren said that it is a government run from the village and not from the Ranchi headquarters.

"We have worked for you, so we have full right to ask for votes. The opposition people say that the Maiyaan scheme has been started to buy votes. We have started the Maiyaan scheme. In the coming five years, we will work to deliver one lakh rupees to every household," said Soren.

Soren that you people will no longer need to borrow from anyone.

Taking a jibe at the BJP, Soren said that BJP are a group of traders are preparing to loot the forest."The Forest Rights Act has been changed. The contract-lease for cutting trees is being decided from Delhi. We have started the Birsa Gram Harit Yojana. We have started a scheme for waiving off loans of up to two lakhs for farmers but BJP is only interested in looting forest resources," said Soren.

"BJP is going to be wiped out from Haryana and BJP is not going to come to Jammu and Kashmir either.. BJP forms the government by buying and selling on the strength of money power," alleged Soren.

He also announced that in the next five years, one lakh rupees will be given to every family.

The Chief Minister compared BJP as group of businessmen.

"BJP is like businessmen trying to loot the country's forest resources. The Forest Rights Act has beenchanged. Instructions for people to cut forests are being issued from Delhi. You have to assess how you were looted with both hands in the previous double engine government in 20 years and what rights did you get in the last 4 years," said Soren.

Central Government urged to issue advisory on Sikh identity

Mail News Service

Jamshedpur, Sep 11: Advocate Kulwinder Singh, National Convenor of Rashtriya Sanatan Sikh Sabha, has called on the central government to issue an advisory to ensure the protection of Sikh identity across India.

Singh, while criticizing Congress MP Rahul Gandhi for speaking "half-truths" about the identity of Sikhs, stated that no one who believes in the Indian Constitution or law has ever questioned the Sikh identity, represented by the turban, hair, and beard.

Singh emphasized the pride all Indians feel toward the Sikh identity, rooted in history, sacrifice, and tradition.

He mentioned that during the Mughal and British eras, Sikhs faced severe challenges but never compromised on their identity. However, Singh pointed out that some Congress leaders had previously raised questions about the turban for political gain, employing impostors to distort Sikh traditions.

He further criticized the negative approach of Congress during the Anandpur Resolution of 1978, leading to distrust and the unfortunate events of 1984.

Singh highlighted ongoing issues where Sikhs, especially Amritdhari Sikhs, are asked to remove their kirpans or turbans during important exams or security checks at airports and government offices, despite court orders protecting their religious symbols.

He urged prominent Sikh leaders, including Sardar Hardeep Singh Puri and Manjinder Singh Sirsa, to push the central government for an advisory to prevent further incidents of harassment. Singh also called for strict penalties for those violating Sikh rights. (w/nkm)

SDO cracks down on illegal sand mining at Baridih river ghat, trucks seized

Mail News Service

Jamshedpur, September 11: In a significant move to curb illegal sand mining, SDO Parul Singh conducted a raid at Baridih River Ghat on Wednesday morning, seizing four trucks carrying sand without proper documentation.

The crackdown came amidst incessant concerns over rampant sand lifting in Jamshedpur and nearby areas, despite a complete ban imposed by the National Green Tribunal (NGT).

The trucks were intercepted during the raid, and none of the drivers were able to produce valid challans for transporting sand. All four truck drivers were taken into custody for questioning.

This SDO's action caused panic among local sand mafias, who had been illegally extracting sand from riverbanks, often in broad daylight.

Despite the NGT's ban on sand mining, illegal activities have continued unabated, raising suspicions of police collusion.

The SDO's operation was part of a broader effort to tackle the black marketing of sand in the region, where mafias regularly flouted regulations, impacting the environment and the local economy.

Further investigations are underway. (w/gsd)

'I am a Jamshedpur resident, I know the issues plaguing this city better'

Dr Ajoy says he does 200 suryanamaskars to remain physically and mentally fit

Deepak

A MBBS doctor who cracked the UPSC and joined the Bihar cadre as a dynamic IPS officer, Dr. Ajoy Kumar served as Jamshedpur Superintendent of Police (SP) in the 1990s. Crime was at its peak, murders were routine, law and order had hit rock bottom when he took charge . Within a short span, he reversed the situation on ground and gained immense popularity for his fearless encounters with criminals.

He quit midway at the peak of his career and joined a corporate company where he didn't stay long. Soon he took a jump into politics and contested the 2011 parliamentary polls on a JVM ticket from Jamshedpur constituency and won. Later, he joined the Congress party and has hence been serving it in various capacities.

With Jharkhand assembly polls around, Dr Ajoy is vying for the Jamshedpur East assembly seat, a BJP stronghold. A lot has changed since his MP days. Will he be able to repeat the 2011 feat? Has his popularity graph fallen or remains intact? Will he be able to storm the BJP bastion? In an exclusive one-on-one conversation, Dr. Ajoy Kumar opens up about his plans and responds to all flying allegations against him.

From an IPS officer to a corporate executive, JVM Member of Parliament (MP) from Jamshedpur, and now a Congress heavyweight. Where do you plan to go from here?

I don't want anything more. I want to work for the state, which has always showered me with love, and there are ample opportunities to do so. The current government has done a lot, but we still have much to achieve in developing the state. I also want to get more involved in state politics.

Are you planning to contest from Jamshedpur East?

Yes.

Why do you plan to contest from Jamshedpur East?

The answer is simple. I'm a resident of Jamshedpur. In East Singhbhum, out of six assembly seats, only three are general seats—Jamshedpur West, Jamshedpur East, and Baharagora. So, the only option for me to contest is Jamshedpur East, where I'm also a voter.

In Jharkhand, where there is the "bahari-bhitri" (outsider-insider) conflict, and your alliance leader, Hemant Soren, is accused of fueling this fire, what would be your stand on this issue?

Chief Minister Hemant Soren is not fueling the "bahari-bhitri" concept. It's just propaganda and a baseless issue being created by the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP). The idea that Soren is adding fuel to this conflict is a myth. He is pro-SC, ST, and Moolvasi, which isn't the same as being anti-others. If you observe him closely, you'll see that his team includes people from all communities and religions, whether they are Bengali, Bihari, or local. Even in recent departmental promotions, deserving people from other states have been promoted alongside locals.

In Haryana, the alliance between Congress and AAP failed. Do you think the INDIA alliance will be successful in Jharkhand?

That's okay. The visions of the two parties didn't align for the Haryana elections, and we should respect that. In Haryana, Akhilesh Yadav's Samajwadi Party (SP) is also contesting alone. Kerala is a great example—CPI is part of the INDIA alliance, but we still contest against each other there. In Jharkhand, the INDIA alliance is strong, and we, along with JMM and others, will contest and win.

Your opposition has accused you of being a "political seasonal frog" who surfaces only during elections. What's your response?

People should read and observe more. I've always been here, continuously working in rural areas. They can't see that because they are never in the field themselves. How often do you see Jamshedpur MP Vidhyut Mahato out in the field? Elections are approaching, so he's now visible, but otherwise, he remains invisible. Do you know about the insect cicada? It comes out of the ground once every 17 years to spoil crops. Similarly, BJP leaders go underground for four years after winning elections and emerge just before the next election. Even Prime Minister Narendra Modi has become less visible these days, not even on TV as much.

Why do you think BJP failed to secure a majority in the last parliament elections?

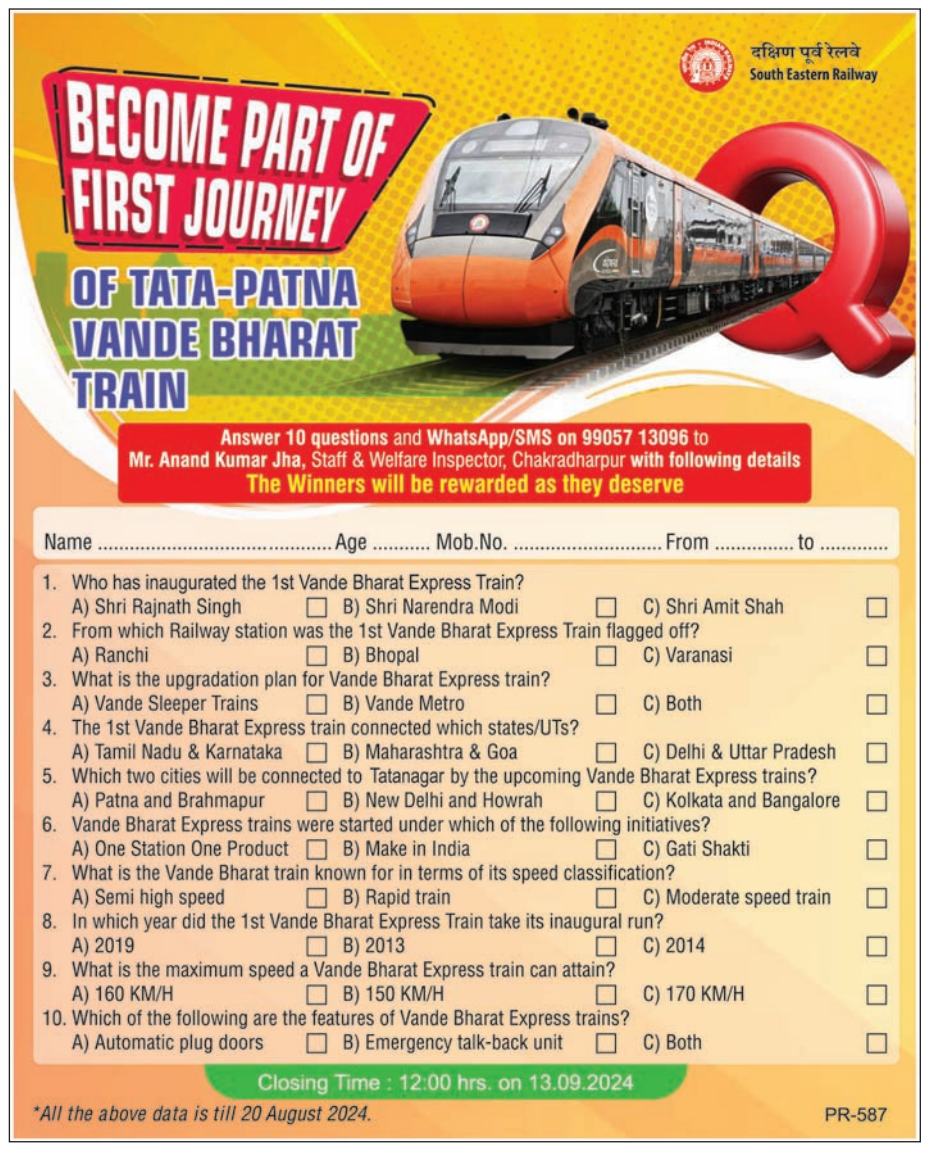

The BJP was confident in the Modi wave during the last Lok Sabha elections, believing that Modi's magic would work wonders for them. They claimed they would win over 400 seats, but people had lost faith in the BJP and its leadership, including Modi. That's why they suffered a miserable loss in the last elections.

What are the major issues in Jamshedpur East, and how will you address them?

Jamshedpur East has two major areas: Tata and non-Tata. About 70 percent of people live in the non-Tata areas, where the main issues are roads, sanitation, jobs, healthcare, and high school fees. Every locality has its own problems, and each problem must be addressed in a tailored way.

You have a significant following among women and youth in the city. At the age of 60, it seems your age stopped. What's your secret?

Kareena Kapoor does 100 Suryanamaskars, but I do 200 every day. I'd encourage people to focus on both their mental and physical health. I request everyone to devote at least an hour daily to self-care. Regular exercise keeps you both happy and healthy.

Urgent call for 1,000 new fast-track courts

YUVA's bold push for speedy justice amidst alarming case backlogs

Mail News Service

Seraikela, Sep 11: In an appeal to the state government, YUVA (Youths Union for Voluntary Action) has demanded the creation of 1,000 new special fast-track courts to tackle the unprecedented backlog of rape and POCSO cases plaguing the judicial system. This urgent call comes in response to a startling report by India Child Protection, which highlights a shocking disparity in case disposal rates between fast-track courts and regular courts.

According to the eye-opening report titled 'Fast Tracking Justice: Role of Fast Track Special Courts in Reducing Case Backlogs,' special fast-track courts boast an impressive case disposal rate of 83 percent. In stark contrast, regular courts manage a dismal 10 percent. The report paints a dire picture: without the establishment of 1,000 new fast-track courts, cases could languish unresolved for years, and even with all existing courts operating, a rape or POCSO case would need to be resolved every three minutes to clear the backlog within a year.

The report, unveiled at a high-profile workshop in New Delhi, reveals that while the disposal rate for rape and POCSO cases in courts nationwide was a mere 10 percent in 2022, it soared to 94 percent in fast-track courts by 2023. This dramatic increase underscores the critical need for expanding the fast-track system. The report also suggests that the unused Nirbhaya Fund, which currently holds a staggering Rs 1,700 crore, could be utilized to establish new courts and ensure the smooth operation of existing ones.

Bhuvan Ribhu, a prominent child rights activist and founder of Child Marriage Free India, emphasized the pivotal role of these courts in delivering swift justice. He declared, "We are at a crucial juncture. Setting up 1,000 new fast-track courts within the next three years is not just necessary—it's imperative. This moment calls for a decisive policy shift to end the agonizing wait for justice and restore accountability within our judicial system."

Rakesh Narayan, Director of Yuva, echoed these sentiments, highlighting the ongoing struggles faced by victims and their families. "Justice delayed is justice denied," he asserted. "The current system is failing our children and their families. The evidence is clear: more fast-track courts are essential for providing timely justice and ending the endless wait."

The report's findings are both alarming and urgent. It predicts that settling the 2,02,175 pending cases of rape and POCSO will require an estimated three years. However, if no new cases are added and each case is resolved every three minutes, the backlog could be cleared within a year. The existing 1,023 special fast-track courts have already proven their effectiveness, disposing of 2,14,463 cases out of 4,16,638 since their inception. Yet, the disparity between states is stark, with Maharashtra and Punjab leading with high disposal rates, while West Bengal lags at a mere 2 percent. (w/nkm)

Lurking Dangers on Rail Tracks

Cement blocks, tree trunks, iron rods and rails, gas cylinders and other obstructions on rail tracks cannot just be termed accidental. These seem to be part of some greater conspiracy. This apprehension is gaining ground because such incidents are happening in quick succession. Such incidents have an element of similarity but in other instances it is evident that attempts are being made to derail trains. An example is last Sunday, loaded LPG cylinders were placed on the rail tracks between Kanpur and Kasganj on which the Kalindi Express was supposed to have passed. By the time the loco pilot noticed these obstacles and applied the brakes, the train collided with the cylinders but fortunately, a major mishap was averted but the fact that bottles filled with petrol, gunpowder, matches and other explosives were discovered at the spot give vent to the possibility of terrorist elements being behind this conspiratorial attempt. The NIA has been given the charge to look into this attempt. Earlier an iron rail had been placed on the tracks near Kanpur that led to the derailment of 22 bogies of the Sabarmati Express. This incident is being considered as a terrorist act and investigation has been launched in line with the suspicion. Another similar incident had also happened near Kanpur. Such attempts and incidents have been reported from other parts of the country where attempts have been made to derail trains. Recently, cement blocks weighing about 70 kilograms each were placed near Ajmer in an attempt to derail a goods train.

It is true that disruptive elements tamper with rail tracks and pelt stones at passing trains but the manner in which trains are being targeted does not augur well. The Railways has taken these attempts to derail trains by placing impediments on rail tracks as acts of terrorism and has duly assigned the investigation of these events to the NIA. Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw has announced these events as matters of serious concern. It is perfectly in accordance with the fact that investigation into these destructive moves has been given to the NIA but until a positive conclusion is reached, the police throughout the country should be on high alert. Simultaneously, people in general should be cautious. They have to keep an eye on actions and activities near the rail tracks and report any doubtful activity to officials concerned. People should come forward to foil the intentions of disruptive and terrorist elements. Undoubtedly, the railways too have to enhance vigil. They have to pay special attention to the reasons and causes that have made trains easy targets of sabotage.

Echoes of 1991

As the nation marks the celebration of the ten-day-long Ganesh Chaturthi festival, an old incident dating back to 1991-92 echoes Prime Minister Narendra Modi's pivotal role in organising the 'Ekta Yatra' for Jammu and Kashmir's full integration with the country. The same year, Gujarat celebrated Ganesh Utsav with the same theme, giving strength to the nationwide Ekta Yatra.

In a post on social media platform X, Modi Archive, which narrates the journey of the life of PM Modi through archival pictures, videos, audio recordings, letters, newspaper clips and other such content, posted about the Prime Minister's zeal and vision to stem terrorism as an ordinary worker.

The nationwide Ekta Yatra was organised under the leadership of Dr. Murli Manohar Joshi to unite people against terrorism and support Jammu & Kashmir's full integration with India.

During a time when the country was struggling under British rule and needed unity in its fight for freedom, eminent leader Lokmanya Tilak brought people together through mass Ganesh Chaturthi celebrations.

Akin to Lokmanya Tilak's efforts for uniting people to fight against British rule through Ganesh Utsav, PM Modi aimed to inspire Ekta or unity against terrorism.

Carrying forward eminent nationalist leader Lokmanya Tilak's legacy, even as an ordinary BJP worker in 1991-92, PM Modi organised nationwide Ekta Yatra under the leadership of Murli Manohar Joshi to unite people against terrorism and support Jammu & Kashmir's full integration with India.

"The very same year, the Tricolour was unfurled in Kashmir's Lal Chowk and Gujarat celebrated Ganesh Utsav with an Ekta Yatra theme reflecting on the Yatra influence," Modi Archives posted.

"In this case, @narendramodi aimed to inspire 'Ekta' or unity against terrorism, igniting social awakening among all Indians to stand together for Kashmir, an integral part of India," it said.

Meanwhile, on the occasion, PM Modi greeted the nation on Saturday and wished that the festival brings good luck, success and prosperity to all.

Taking to X, PM Modi shared a video in which he called upon the youth to learn the qualities of leadership and organising through the Ganesh Utsav.

Invoking Lokmanya Tilak, PM Modi shared that the eminent leader, who gave the motivational mantra of Swarajya Humara Janamsiddh Adhikkar hai, changed the religious occasion of Ganesh Utsav into a festival of national awakening.

"Cannot we give a mantra from the public domain that Swaraj humara janamsiddha adhikaar hai (Swaraj is my birthright)," PM Modi asked?

"In Independent India, can't we say Swaraj humara adhikaar hai, Swaraj is our priority. Cannot we give this message from the public domain," he questioned.

The festival is celebrated across the country to mark the birth of the god of wisdom, who is worshipped before beginning anything new.

Harassment, disrespect, absent amenities

The horrific rape and murder of a trainee doctor in the state-run R.G. Kar Medical College and Hospital in Kolkata has ignited a furore over the working conditions and safety of women medical personnel in India, but the same harrowing issues - leering and groping colleagues, staff, and patients, stalking, inappropriate comments, lack of respect for their capabilities, and a marked lack of dedicated amenities - afflict their Pakistani counterparts also.

An online survey conducted on Dawn.com and its Dawn Images supplement, on their Instagram pages, found that 47 per cent of 988 female medical professionals reported feeling unsafe in both government and private hospitals. Of 932 respondents, 47.2 per cent said they had experienced harassment while on duty, and 67 per cent of 637 respondents said their hospital lacked a safe space to rest.

The sample size of the survey isn't large enough to draw any major conclusions, but it does support what many women medical professionals reported about what it's like to work at hospitals in Pakistan, Dawn Images said in a report.

That may go to explain why of 104,974 women medical graduates residing in Pakistan, 21,146, or around 20, are no longer part of the labour force, as per a report by Pakistan's leading research institution, it said.

Threats to woman doctors and nurses do not come from patients and visitors, but are sometimes internal, from within the hospital itself.

A recent study conducted at a Karachi-based hospital found that nearly 70 per cent of female surgeons in Pakistan had experienced harassment in the workplace. Women doctors and nurses from all four provinces, both in rural areas and in urban centres, shared their stories of harassment, ranging from catcalls, comments about their bodies, inappropriate jokes, and being touched.

One woman doctor revealed how in the middle of the night she received a message from an unknown number "complimenting my looks". More messages followed, detailing her exact location and describing what she was wearing. The messages became more frequent and she soon discovered they were sent by the head male nurse at the hospital. She did not file a complaint against him as she was told that he was favoured by the management.

Another doctor at a semi-private Lahore hospital reported that a resident doctor would make inappropriate comments to her. She initially ignored him, but soon it escalated into deliberate bumps and brushes, and creating situations in which they were alone.

In addition to these challenges, women in the medical field are subjected to invasions of privacy, with some even being filmed while on duty. A female nurse said: "I've been inappropriately touched by patients and disrespected by doctors. At first, I assumed the touches by patients were accidental, but a senior later told me otherwise."

"The most shocking moment was when I found inappropriate videos of myself on a 14-year-old boy's phone."

Lack of separate, secure amenities is another problem. A female resident doctor at the National Institute of Cardiovascular Diseases (NICVD) in Karachi revealed how the facility had a common restroom shared between male and female doctors. "There is no separate room for women doctors to rest - only a single space shared by both genders. Male doctors and nurses often enter the room unannounced. Anyone resting in the room could be caught off guard," she said,

One day, when a male colleague was about to enter the room unannounced, she asked him to knock before coming in. Offended by the request, he created a scene, accusing her of doubting his intentions. The situation escalated into an argument, drawing a crowd before consultants and the administration intervened.

Apart from restrooms, there is a more concerning issue of shared washrooms. A general surgeon from Khyber Pakhtunkhwa said that while they had a designated bathroom for women, male attendants often used it.

Beyond inadequate facilities, female doctors in Pakistan also face rampant gender discrimination. One Islamabad-based doctor revealed that even when she examined a patient and expressed a diagnosis, families wouldn't accept her conclusions until a male doctor confirmed them. "My gender takes precedence over my capabilities as a doctor. It's just a cultural thing," she said with a sigh.

"It doesn't matter if you're a doctor there to serve people, if you're wearing a burqa, a lab coat, socks with shoes, and a mask on your face; if you have a woman's body, you will be leered at, touched, and made to feel uncomfortable," a doctor who served in a Karachi hospital, told Dawn Images.

India's defence export projected to grow at 18 pc by 2030

India's defence export is estimated to grow at 18 per cent CAGR (compound annual growth rate) from FY24-FY30, driven by the 'Make in India' initiative and thrust on local manufacturing.

According to global investment firm Jefferies, which cited factors such as geopolitical tensions and the government's push to indigenisation the defence sector, opportunities are growing for Indian defence companies.

The report further said that the government is also building bilateral relations to promote exports in the global market.

Between FY24 to FY30 (estimated), the potential market opportunity for Indian defence companies is expected to rise at 14 per cent CAGR, the report stated.

"On one hand, the Indian government is emphasising indigenisation of defence. On the other hand, export of defence equipment is also being encouraged. This will increase the order inflow in the defence sector," the report mentioned.

India's defence spending will double between FY24 and FY30. This will further push share prices of defence companies in the coming future.

Defence companies will get opportunities worth $90 billion to $100 billion in the Indian market in the next 5 to 6 years. In 2022, India's defence expenditure was 10 percent of the US expenditure and 27 percent of China's expenditure.

India is the second largest importer of defence equipment in the world. Country's share in the total arms imports in the world is 9 per cent.

India's defence exports have increased 14 times to $2.6 billion between FY 2017 and FY 2024.

India's export basket of defence products includes missiles, radars, naval systems, helicopters, and surveillance equipment.

Last week, in a huge boost to local defence manufacturing, the Centre approved 10 capital acquisition proposals amounting to Rs 1,44,716 crore, including for the modernisation of the Indian Army's tank fleet with a futuristic Main Battle Tank.

The Defence Acquisition Council (DAC), chaired by Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, accorded Acceptance of Necessity (AoN) for 10 capital acquisition proposals amounting to Rs 1,44,716 crore.

Of the total cost, 99 per cent is from indigenous sources under the 'Buy (Indian)' and 'Buy (Indian-indigenously designed, developed and manufactured)' categories, the ministry said in a statement.

The move clears the path for the procurement of future-ready combat vehicles (FRCVs), air defence fire control radars, Dornier-228 aircraft, next-generation fast patrol and offshore patrol vessels.

Bhindranwale, Congress, and Khalistan: Why Kangana's 'Emergency' faces Sikh ire

Vikas Datta

The Emergency is still a controversial issue in the Indian polity, and sparks are bound to fly when a controversy-courting actor like Kangana Ranaut seeks to present it onscreen. However, the film's release has been stuck as various Sikh organisations across the country, including the SGPC, take umbrage over the depiction of the community and the Punjab troubles.

There has no been love lost between Kangana and (Sikh) Punjab, with her remarks on the farmers' protests and the assault on her by a woman CISF trooper, hailing from the state, at an airport and some references to Punjab in the film trailer have added to the toxic mix.

The purported depiction of militant preacher Jarnail Singh Bhindranwale, and his reported deal with the Congress to ensure support and votes in exchange for 'Khalistan', and a montage scene showing one of the massacres by Khalistani militants has riled up the community.

While there is no conclusive proof that Bhindranwale was a votary of Khalistan, with the furthest he went being opining, ahead of Operation Blue Star as he barricaded himself in the Sri Harmandir Sahib and security forces began the siege, that the "foundations of Khalistan will be laid the day the Indian Army storms the Golden Temple", there are questions why a film based on the Emergency (1975-77) deals with the Punjab problem, which technically only erupted in 1978 with the anti-Nirankari movement.The reality lies somewhere in the middle. While Bhindranwale may never have explicitly espoused Khalistan, his actions were geared towards this direction and there was a tacit, but short-lived, agreement between him and the Congress before it ended in acrimony in 1981.

Why this happened, necessitates a look into the political history of Punjab since Independence, particularly the reasons for the emergence of Bhindranwale.

Following the horrors of Partition, the Sikhs, left bereft of some of their most productive land and property, as well as key shrines such as Kartarpur Sahib and Panja Sahib, began demanding a 'Punjabi Suba', with Master Tara Singh raising the demand right from 1948.

Partitioned East Punjab then included what is now Haryana and parts of Himachal Pradesh.

The 'Punjabi Suba' movement, spearheaded by the Akali Dal, encountered resistance from some Hindu outfits, who even took out ads in newspapers, ahead of the Census, asking co-coreligionists to cite Hindi, not Punjabi, as their mother tongue, to dilute the demand.

For the next decade and a half, the movement saw much drama, including a police raid on the Golden Temple in 1955, mass arrests of the Akalis, and fasts by Tara Singh and Sant Fateh Singh. Eventually, the Punjab Suba demand conceded in 1966, but agitation had created a communal rift, whose dire consequences would be seen in the decades to come. Sikh activist Darshan Singh Pheruman did fast to death in jail in 1969 over the non-transfer of Chandigarh and other Punjabi-speaking areas.

The next flashpoint came in 1973 with the Akalis passing the Anandpur Sahib Resolution demanding more powers for the states. The trigger was the destabilisation of the party's first government in the state, led by Justice Gurnam Singh (retd). It came to power in February 1967 but fell in November that year, as a section of legislators led by Lachman Singh Gill walked out. Gill would go on to become Chief Minister with the support of the Congress, but lasted only a few months.

The Anandpur resolution would go on to bedevil Centre-State relations for the next two decades and fuel the rise of terrorism, as some vested interests seized the issue to seek a Sikh homeland. Meanwhile, charismatic preacher Bhindranwale entered the stage.

The Congress had intended him to against the Akalis, but his ascendancy was fuelled by the feud between two tall Congress leaders and Chief Ministers -- Darbara Singh and Giani Zail Singh (later President). One used the fiery preacher to weaken his rival, but in the process created an unpredictable and uncontrollable force. And when Bhindranwale latched on to the Khalistan demand and the ongoing Sikh-Nirankari tussle, he had become too big to control.Full-blown violence erupted in the early 1980s - the murder of the Hind Samachar Group's Lala Jagat Narain and Punjab Police DIG A.S. Atwal within the Golden Temple, extortions, bombings, and random massacres.With Bhindranwale's demands getting more strident and his open defiance of the state, Operation Blue Star was launched in June 1984. Though Bhindranwale and his top aides were killed, the damage to the Sikh's shrine and growing anger, led to the assassination of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, and a full-blown insurgency in the state, finally quelled in 1992.

However, Bhindranwale's time was well after the Emergency, and he and the Congress eventually ended up fierce enemies.

It is time for action: PM Modi calls for global cooperation in green hydrogen promotion

New Delhi, Sep 11 (IANS) Prime Minister NarendraModi on Wednesday emphasised on India's ambition to become a global hub for green hydrogen production and called for international cooperation in the promotion of the renewable energy source.

Addressing the 'Second International Conference on Green Hydrogen' virtually, PM Modi highlighted that green hydrogen can play a crucial role in decarbonising industries and act as a storage solution for surplus renewable energy.

"Green hydrogen can help decarbonise industries that are difficult to electrify, such as refineries, fertilisers, steel, and heavy-duty transportation," PM Modi stated.

He also mentioned that India launched the 'National Green Hydrogen Mission' in 2023 to drive this energy transition forward.

Addressing the growing concerns over climate change, PM Modi stressed that its impact is no longer a distant issue but a present-day challenge.

"The world is undergoing a crucial transformation, and it's time for action," he remarked, noting that energy transition and sustainability have now become central to global policy discussions. India has emerged as a leader in clean energy, having fulfilled its Paris Agreement commitments nine years ahead of the 2030 target.

PM Modi highlighted that India's installed non-fossil fuel capacity has surged by nearly 300 per cent in the last decade, while solar energy capacity has grown by over 3,000 per cent.

However, he stressed that India is not resting on its achievements, as the nation continues to focus on new and innovative energy solutions.

"The 'National Green Hydrogen Mission' is boosting innovation, infrastructure, industry, and investment," he said.

He added that the government was promoting partnerships between industries and the academia, encouraging startups, and fostering entrepreneurship in the green hydrogen sector.

PM Modi also noted the potential for job creation in this emerging green ecosystem, particularly for the youth.

"We are also working on skill development for our youth in this sector," he added.

Recognising the global nature of climate change and the energy transition, PM Modi urged for international cooperation to promote green hydrogen. "Scaling production, minimising costs, and building infrastructure can only be achieved through global collaboration," he said, emphasising that international partnerships are essential for advancing research, innovation, and technological progress in this field.

During the G20 Summit held in India in September 2023, the New Delhi Leaders' Declaration adopted five high-level voluntary principles on hydrogen. These principles are guiding the creation of unified global road maps for green hydrogen development.

PM Modi also issued a call to the scientific community to explore ways to improve green hydrogen production efficiency.

He urged experts to suggest policy changes and research areas, including improving electrolyser efficiency, utilising seawater and municipal waste for hydrogen production, and expanding the use of green hydrogen in public transport, shipping, and inland waterways.

"Exploring such topics together will greatly help green energy transition across the world", said the PM.

He concluded saying, "Humanity has faced many challenges, and we have always overcome them through collective and innovative solutions.

"We can achieve anything if we are together. Let us work to accelerate the development and deployment of green hydrogen," he added.

Indian EV Market projected to grow at over 40 pc CAGR till 2027: Report

Mumbai, Sep 11 (IANS) The Indian Electric Vehicle (EV) market is expected to grow in the range of 35-40 per cent CAGR till the year 2027, according to a report on Wednesday.

The report by Niveshaay, which manages the Green Energy smallcase (a portfolio of stocks, which will benefit from the renewable energy sector development), showed that EV sales volume in India could touch around 3-4 million units by 2025, and 10 million by 2030.

Currently, the Indian EV market is concentrated on the two and three-wheeler EV segment, which accounts for about 80 per cent of its vehicle market.

"The Indian government is aiming to boost local manufacturing and reduce import dependency. It has introduced Production Linked Incentive (PLI) schemes and reduced customs duties on critical minerals to boost local manufacturing," said Arvind Kothari, smallcase Manager and Founder of Niveshaay.

"The balanced approach to policy support and market development is facilitating India to emerge as a remarkable contender in the global EV landscape, despite challenges like limited charging infrastructure," he added.

The new report further stated that EVs are expected to penetrate the market with approximately 10-15 per cent of new vehicle sales in India (including two-wheelers, three-wheelers, and passenger vehicles), driven by government incentives, rising fuel prices, and increased consumer awareness.

By the year 2030, annual EV sales are projected to surpass 10 million units, with substantial growth in the deployment of electric buses, commercial vehicles, and private cars. EVs could represent 30-40 per cent of new vehicle sales in the market.

With more than two million public charging stations projected nationwide, the study predicts a strong EV Infrastructure, the report said.

The increase in EV Adoption, infrastructure, as well as manufacturing, can also be attributed to growth in Budget allocations for the EV sector.

From Rs 10,000 crore allocated in FY2019-20 (FAME II scheme), it has increased to 19,744 crore (for Green Hydrogen mission) and 2,908 crore (continued FAME II Support) in FY2023-24.

Faster Adoption and Manufacturing of Electric Vehicles (FAME) was introduced in 2015 to encourage the adoption of electric and hybrid vehicles by offering upfront incentives on purchase.

Apple reaches $5 billion in iPhone exports from India in April-August period

New Delhi, Sep 11 (IANS) Driven by the production-linked incentive (PLI) scheme, Apple has reached around $5 billion in iPhone exports from India in the April-August period this fiscal.

According to industry data, this is a growth of over 50 per cent from the same period of first five months in FY24. With the country set to commence production of the flagship iPhone Pro and Pro Max models, the value of iPhone exports is going to jump further in the festive quarter and months ahead, according to the industry analysts.

The new iPhone 16 series will be available in the country from September 20 at attractive financing options and other offers.

According to Union Railways and Electronics and IT Minister, AshwiniVaishnaw, Apple's latest iPhone 16 is being produced and launched globally from the Indian manufacturing plants. "Prime Minister NarendraModi's 'Make in India' initiative is now driving the creation of iconic products for the world," the minister posted on X social media platform.

iPhone exports continue to clock around $1 billion each month thanks to the government's PLI scheme. The iPhone exports from India surged sharply to $12.1 billion in 2023-24 from $6.27 billion in 2022-23. Overall, the company's India operations reached 23.5 billion dollars in value in the last fiscal (FY24).

The company's revenues in India are likely to grow 18 per cent (year-on-year) in 2024 and the new iPhone 16 series would help the company further solidify its presence in the country, along with boosting its exports figures.

2 degrees Celsius increase could cut $6 trillion from S&P 500 value: Report

New York, Sep 11 (IANS) A temperature increase of 2 degrees Celsius could cut $6 trillion from the value of the S&P 500 index, in addition to the devastating environmental and social consequences, a report warned on Monday.

Slowing momentum on sustainability could come with a tangible cost, according to new research from Bain & Company, that pointed to a sharp decline in CEOs' relative prioritisation of sustainability, as AI, growth, inflation, and geopolitical uncertainty have risen to the top of their agenda.

"The transition to a sustainable world is following a familiar cycle. As the challenge of meeting bold commitments becomes clear, many companies are rethinking what is achievable and on what timeline. But slowing progress would be a mistake," said Jean-Charles van den Branden, Bain's global Sustainability practice leader.

Companies are struggling to meet their existing commitments. Of the firms disclosing their progress via carbon disclosure project (CDP), 30 per cent are well behind on their Scope 1 and 2 emissions reduction goals, and almost half are behind on Scope 3.

The research shows many sustainable technologies are likely to reach their tipping point more quickly than expected.

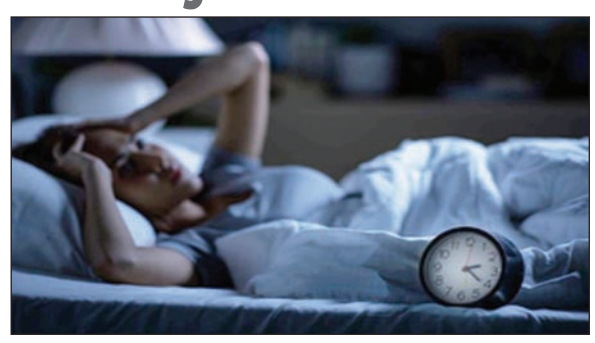

Forward-thinking companies will stay the course and lead the way as a mix of new technologies, consumer and customer behaviour, and smart policy creates valuable opportunities for their industries, the report added.

Many companies are reassessing, adjusting, and, in some cases, retracting their climate commitments.

Even as CEOs deal with competing priorities, the message from consumers around the world is clear. In a global survey of nearly 19,000 consumers in 10 countries, 61 per cent of people said their concerns about climate change have increased over the past two years, often sparked by personal experience of extreme weather. In India, 64 per cent of people surveyed say their level of concern about climate change have increased.

"Indian consumers prioritize health, price, and quality while shopping. When choosing sustainable options, they predominantly seek products with 'natural' attributes across various categories," said Ravi Swarup, Partner and India lead for consumer products practice at Bain & Company.

Why night owls are at higher risk of diabetes

New Delhi, Sep 22 (IANS) Night owls -- a person who is habitually active or wakeful at night -- tend to have a higher body mass index (BMI), larger waists, and more hidden body fat and thus are almost 50 per cent more likely to develop type 2 diabetes (T2D) than those who go to bed earlier, shows new research on Monday.

Previous studies have indicated that late chronotype -- people who prefer to go to bed late and wake up late -- live an unhealthy lifestyle, and are at higher risk of obesity and metabolic disorders including type 2 diabetes.

The new study showed that a late chronotype had a 46 per cent higher risk of developing diabetes, which suggests that the increased risk of T2D can't be explained by lifestyle alone.

"We believe that other mechanisms are also at play," said lead researcher Dr. Jeroen van der Velde, from Leiden University Medical Centre, in the Netherlands.

"A likely explanation is that the circadian rhythm or body clock in late chronotypes is out of sync with the work and social schedules followed by society. This can lead to circadian misalignment, which we know can lead to metabolic disturbances and ultimately type 2 diabetes," van der Velde added.

To explore, the team studied the association between sleep timing, diabetes, and body fat distribution in more than 5,000 individuals who were divided into three groups: early chronotype (20 per cent), late chronotype (20 per cent), and intermediate chronotype (60 per cent).

The team measured all participants' BMI and waist circumference, while visceral fat and liver fat were measured in 1,526 participants, using MRI scans and MR spectroscopy, respectively.

About 225 were diagnosed with diabetes after a follow-up of 6.6 years.

Late chronotypes were found to be at higher risk of developing diabetes, had a 0.7 kg/m2 higher BMI, 1.9 cm larger waist circumference, 7 cm2 more visceral fat, and 14 per cent higher liver fat content, compared with those with an intermediate chronotype.

Cut, snip, beep: Indira Gandhi-centric films that went to war with censor board

Mumbai, Sep 11 (IANS) The Hindi film industry has never shied away from touching the topics of politics to make films. However, it has often created controversies. Films tracing the life of India's first and only woman Prime Minister Indira Gandhi have been no different due to the depiction of her political reign, including the emergency and her assassination.

The Central Board of Film Certification (CBFC) have often raised red flags to the content considering it "sensitive" or "potentially disruptive to public order", leading to snips and legal battles.

Here is a list of films exploring the life of former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi that have fought the war against CBFC.

*"Emergency" (2024)

Actress-filmmaker and MP Kangana Ranaut's upcoming film "Emergency" is the latest film that has got into hot soup with the Central Board of Film Certification (CBFC). The film, which has Kangana playing the titular role, is based on India's Emergency period between 1975-1977.

The Bombay High Court on September 4 ordered the Censor Board to decide by September 18 any representations by Sikh bodies, groups or individuals who have objections to the September 6 release of the film. It is claimed that the image of the Sikh community has been wrongly portrayed in the film.

The actress, whose film was suppose to hit the screens on September 6, took to her Instagram on Friday morning and announced "with a heavy heart" that her film's release has been pushed once again.

She wrote: "With a heavy heart I announce that my directorial. 'Emergency' which was suppose to release today has been postponed and we are still waiting for the certification from the censor board."

Kangana shared that she will be sharing the new release date soon.

*"Indu Sarkar" (2017)

Filmmaker Madhur Bhandarkar's film "Indu Sarkar" starring Kirti Kulhari in the pivotal role, showcased the Emergency period. The film was strongly opposed by the Congress party as the supporters criticised Bhandarkar's attempt to portray former Prime Minister of India Mrs.Indira Gandhi and her son Sanjay Gandhi in a bad light. However, the release of the film was not postponed and it hit the big screens 2017.

*"Kissaa Kursee Kaa" (1978)

Starring Shabana Azmi, Raj Babbar and late actress Surekha Sikri, the film stirred controversy. The film's release was postponed due to the Emergency in 1975. The then government saw the film, which was directed by Amrit Nahata, who was a member of Indian parliament, and asked for changes in the film. The film was submitted to the Censor Board for certification in April 1975 and later the prints were confiscated and burned. However, the film was finally released in 1978.

*"Aandhi" (1975)

Directed by Gulzar, "Aandhi" starring Sanjeev Kumar and Suchitra Sen, the film was charged with misrepresenting the relationship between the then Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and her husband. However, after her government fell in 1977, the film was cleared for a theatrical release.

Gurugram auto driver returns lost bag with diamond pendant, wins internet's heart

In a heartwarming post on LinkedIn, a product manager recounted the extraordinary story of a Gurugram auto driver's exceptional integrity and kindness. Arnav Deshmukh shared how the kind auto driver went above and beyond to return her friend's bag containing valuable possessions. As his friend was relocating, she hailed an auto at 1 pm and accidentally left her purse behind after paying the fare via UPI. The bag held not only crucial documents like her Aadhaar card, PAN card, and credit and debit cards but also a treasured family gift - a gold chain adorned with a diamond pendant, gifted to her by her late grandmother and mother.

When the duo discovered the bag was missing, they were overcome with panic. Desperate to recover it, they attempted to contact the driver through UPI messenger, but their efforts were in vain. Seeking further assistance, they turned to the Gurugram police, who swiftly sprang into action. At around 4 pm, the officers tried to track down the auto-rickshaw.

However, an hour later, they received a call from the property manager who informed them that the auto driver named Manirul Jaman had returned with the bag. Overjoyed and relieved, they returned to find that every single item in the bag, including the gold chain, was still there, untouched and intact.

"Tears rolled over and a sense of relief got into our mind. Rushed back to find everything in the bag was in its place as is. This made us realise and made our belief stronger that God exists and humanity prevails even in tier 1 cities like Gurugram," he wrote on LinkedIn.

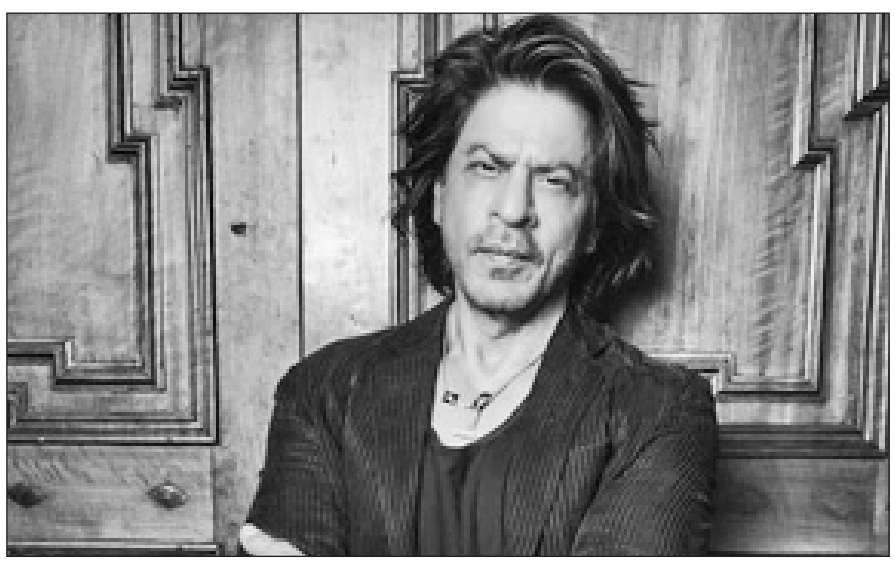

Mr Deshmukh's friend and her family were profoundly touched by the auto driver's act. Many on the internet noted that such remarkable displays of kindness serve as a powerful reminder that humanity and compassion still exist.

Reacting to the post, one user wrote, "Great act of humanity. Much appreciated. Can we get his contact number as my academy wants to gift him some reward?"

Another commented, "This kind of posts need more attention. We spread negative news for awareness, true. But talking more about these positivities will start a virtuous cycle. Kudos to both of them."

A third said, "Honesty is indeed a personal choice, deeply rooted in one's character and values. While you can be taught the importance of honesty, the true decision to live by it comes from within." A fourth added, "Good people exist; they are the silent heroes who make the world a better place every day."

From 'Steve Jobs' to '50 Shades of Grey'

Mumbai, Sep 11 (IANS) Bollywood superstar Shah Rukh Khan is also an avid reader and shared a glimpse of his library and the books he likes to read.

A video of Shah Rukh was shared by Liberty Books, where SRK was seen talking about some of his favourites books from his library.

"I read (Blink by a long time back, so I don't know what each individual part is, but I think it was about how in competition the guy who blinks first is the one who's going to go down. It's a very aggressive thing to say, but there's this talk about taking any business, anything that you love and making it a success," he said in the clip.

He then went on to talk about Blake Snyder's 'Save the Cat' series.

"It's very interesting to read every time. Blake Snyder's 'Save the Cat' series on screenplay writing. So any of you wanting to be writers, I don't know where Blake is, but I endorse this book the most. I think it's really cool," Shah Rukh said.

He added that it is the "best book" on screenplay writing he has read.The superstar then picked up the book "Steve Jobs" by Walter Isaacson.

"That's how it's pronounced. This book here kind of changed my way of thinking about business. I used to do a lot of stuff and then I kind of got to know that you should focus on only one thing. So we changed all that. We stopped television and some advertising production. No, we'll just make films and we'll do visual effects," he said.

"A lot of stuff that I don't agree with. But then who am I to disagree with Steve Jobs?"

He then talks about the book "Fifty Shades of Grey" by British author E. L. James.

"There is going to be a day that I'll read this book fully," said the actor.

The superstar, who has given back-to-back successes with "Pathan" and "Jawan", said that he tried reading the book when he was in London, when he was shooting for "Jab Tak Hai Jaan" along with Anushka Sharma and Katrina Kaif.

"I got lots of these copies then because they had become very famous. I saw the movie. I liked that a lot actually. A lot of people might disagree. But I liked the movie. I thought it was quite interesting to put together," he said.

"And the book I still need to read. And then the second part is out now. So I have to read these." the actor concluded.

She will probably pay the price... : Trump jabs Taylor Swift for endorsing Harris

New York: Republican presidential nominee Donald Trump has called out pop star Taylor Swift for endorsing his Democratic rival Kamala Harris. In an interview with Fox & Friends, Trump said Swift has always endorsed a Democrat, and she will probably "pay a price for it in the marketplace".

Trump was speaking after the first presidential debate between him and Kamala Harris, which was hosted by ABC News. When asked about Taylor Swift's endorsement of Harris moments after the debate ended, Trump said, "I was not a Taylor Swift fan, it was just a question of time. She couldn't, uh, you couldn't possibly endorse Biden. You look at Biden, you couldn't possibly endorse him."

"But she's [Swift] a very liberal person, she seems to always endorse a Democrat, and she'll probably pay a price for it in the marketplace," he added.

In a post on Instagram, Taylor Swift said she will be voting for Kamala Harris in the November election.

"I'm voting for @kamalaharris because she fights for the rights and causes I believe need a warrior to champion them. I think she is a steady-handed, gifted leader and I believe we can accomplish so much more in this country if we are led by calm and not chaos," the pop star said.

"I've done my research, and I've made my choice. Your research is all yours to do, and the choice is yours to make. I also want to say, especially to first time voters: Remember that in order to vote, you have to be registered," she added.

In his interview with Fox, Donald Trump also said he likes Brittany Mahomes, a former soccer who received flak for liking one of Trump's social media posts. "I like Brittany, I think she's great. Brittany got a lot of news last week she's a big MAGA fan, that's the one I like much better than Taylor Swift," he said.

Recently, Taylor Swift attended a US Open match along with her boyfriend Travis Kelce, where she was seen embracing Brittany, who was with her husband Patrick Mahomes. Both Patrik Mahomes and Travis Kelce are NFL (National Football League) professionals.

Swift received flak for the hug, with her own fanbase accusing her of supporting Trump.

Varun Dhawan discussed about farming with me: Rajesh

Mumbai, Sep 11 (IANS) Actor Rajesh Kumar has opened up on his 'pleasant' interaction with Bollywood star Varun Dhawan, and revealed how the duo discussed farming.

For the unversed, Rajesh took a sabbatical from acting to pursue farming in his village in Bihar. During the seven years he spent as a farmer, he focused on cultivating crops, educating fellow farmers, and enhancing their livelihoods.

Recently, Rajesh had met Varun during the launch of his upcoming film 'Binny And Family'.

Speaking about his interaction with Varun, Rajesh told IANS: "The interaction with Varun was pleasant. He appreciated my work and especially admired 'Sarabhai vs Sarabhai'. We also talked about farming, as he was aware of my involvement in it. Even though our interaction was brief, it was a pleasant one, and it didn't feel like we were meeting for the first time."

If he has taken a break from farming, Rajesh shared: "There cannot be a break in farming. The day there is a break, we won't survive. Farming is on autopilot right now, and there's a system in place, so I sometimes go in between to monitor things. After seven years of working in farming, everything has come to a point where it can take care of itself, and things are happening simultaneously."

'Binny And Family' launches Varun's niece Anjini Dhawan into Hindi cinema. Anjini is the daughter of actor Siddharth Dhawan, who is the son of actor Anil Dhawan.

Anil is the brother of filmmaker David Dhawan.

If Rajesh had met Anil on the sets of the movie, the 'Kkusum' fame actor said: "Anil came to the set on the very first day, but he didn't sit down. He just dropped Anjini off. He stayed on set for the first two days in the UK. The whole family didn't come, as they were confident that Anjini would be well taken care of by us."

"They didn't want to cause any confusion for Anjini, so they completely refrained from interfering with the making of the film and left everything to the director and co-actors. I have met Anil many times. Sidharth, who is Anjini's dad, and I have worked together in the show 'Des Mein Niklla Hoga Chand'," he concluded.

'Binny and Family' traces the journey of a London-based teenager named Binny and her conservative grandparents from Bihar, India, who come to live with her. With contrasting lifestyles, she faces dramatic event forces.

The film also stars Charu Shankar, Pankaj Kapur, and Himani Shivpuri.

The new report provides an action plan for a 100-day response to any outbreak or pandemic, the NITI Aayog said.

"It outlines the detailed roadmap for preparedness and implementation, indicating the steps on how the outbreak can be tracked, tested, treated and managed through a well-developed framework," it said.

The report involved consultations with over 60 experts and stakeholders, and analyses of how Covid was managed at the national and global levels. The group picked up best practices and key learnings both from the success stories and challenges faced. The report was based on an Economic Impact Assessment conducted by Nielsen, a New York-based firm, using data provided by the ICC and the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI).

"A new economic report released today by the International Cricket Council (ICC) reveals that the ICC Men's Cricket World Cup 2023, the biggest Cricket World Cup ever, generated an incredible total economic impact of USD1.39 billion (INR 11,637 Crores) for the economy of India," said ICC in a statement released on Wednesday. The tournament, which saw Australia defeat India in the final, was held from October 5 to November 19, 2023, across ten host cities: Ahmedabad, Bengaluru, Chennai, Delhi, Dharamsala, Hyderabad, Kolkata, Lucknow, Mumbai, and Pune.

The ICC highlighted the substantial direct investment from both the global governing body and the BCCI, along with stadium upgrades by state cricket associations, which delivered economic benefits to various Indian businesses across sectors.

A record-breaking 1.25 million spectators attended the matches, with 75% of them attending a men's 50-over World Cup match for the first time. The tournament also attracted a large international audience, with 19% of international attendees making their first-ever visit to India. Irani Cup to be played in Lucknow from Oct 1-5

New Delhi, Sep 11 (IANS) The 2024/25 Irani Cup game, which was supposed to be held in Mumbai from October 1 to 5, has been shifted to Lucknow. The match will be played between current Ranji Trophy winners Mumbai and a Rest of the India side selected by the national selection committee.

Several officials in the Uttar Pradesh Cricket Association (UPCA) have confirmed to IANS on Wednesday that they will be hosting the Irani Cup game, which will be played at the Bharat RatnaShriAtalBihari Vajpayee Ekana Cricket Stadium in Lucknow. As of now, the venue is hosting second season of the six-team UPT20 League.

IANS also understands that the Irani Cup match being moved from Mumbai to Lucknow is due to the extended monsoon in the city, leaving no time for the ground staff to prepare pitches and outfield in time for the proceedings to take place.

As per Accuweather, there is rain forecasted in Mumbai till early October, while it shows sunshine in Lucknow for the same time period. Players from the Indian Test team won't feature in the Rest of India squad, as it clashes with final day of second match against Bangladesh, to be held at the Green Park Stadium in Kanpur.

AFG-NZ Test: Persistent rain forces Day 3 to be called off

New Delhi, Sep 11 (IANS) Persistent rain has forced day three of the one-off Test between Afghanistan and New Zealand being called off without a ball being bowled at the Shahid Vijay Singh Pathik Sport Complex on Wednesday.

With the Delhi-NCR region receiving fresh showers early in the morning, it meant the outfield was soggy yet again. On-field umpires Sharfuddoula and Kumar Dharmasena made an early decision to abandon day three's play with the toss yet to take place and both teams staying in their hotels.

The match is still not abandoned, with match referee JavagalSrinath to take the final decision post first session of day five.

It also means the chances of any result coming from the match are extremely slim. "Afghanistan vs New Zealand Day 3 is called off due to persistent rains. The match will commence with 98 overs from tomorrow if the skies get clear," said an official update from the Afghanistan camp.

PM visit to trigger election fever in state, 14 Kolhan seats on target

Modi to hold mega road show, address public meetings in steel city

Shankar Agrawal

Jamshedpur, September 11: Prime Minister Narendra Modi will visit Jamshedpur on September 15, where he will launch several projects, participate in a roadshow and address a public meeting to energize the BJP's campaign for the upcoming 2024 state elections. The BJP is optimistic about the PM's visit, particularly focusing on Kolhan division, where the party struggled in the last assembly elections, failing to win any of the 14 seats.

Jamshedpur holds strategic importance, as it borders Saraikela, the hometown of former Chief Minister Champai Soren, who recently defected from JMM to BJP. The BJP is determined to strengthen its presence in the Kolhan region, aiming to reverse the losses of the previous election, including the defeat of then-CM Raghubar Das.

BJP leaders believe that PM Modi's visit could significantly impact the political landscape in Jharkhand. Speculations are rife that leaders from other parties may join BJP during or before the event, following hints from BJP election co-in-charge Himanta Biswa Sarma that some Congress and JMM MLAs are in touch with the party.

However, Sarma also indicated that there is limited space for everyone in BJP.

Meanwhile, the ruling JMM and Congress are reportedly working to prevent party defections, especially in the wake of Champai Soren's shifting of party base. As part of this effort, MLA Ramdas Soren from the Ghatsila constituency has been appointed as a minister, replacing Champai Soren.

Following PM Modi's visit, the BJP's election campaign will gain momentum, with central leaders set to visit the state strategically. The party will focus on key issues to build voter support, while senior leaders work on finalizing the manifesto for the upcoming elections. (w/gsd)

JMM cautious ahead of PM Modi's visit, strengthens election strategy

Jamshedpur, September 11: The Jharkhand Mukti Morcha (JMM) is taking a cautious and proactive approach in preparation for Prime Minister Narendra Modi's upcoming visit and the BJP's election campaign for the 2024 assembly polls. The JMM is fully aware of the BJP's efforts to regain its footing in the Kolhan region, where it faced significant setbacks in the previous elections.

To mitigate the loss of key leader Champai Soren, who recently joined the BJP, the JMM has strategically appointed MLA Ramdas Soren as a minister. This move aims to maintain party unity and offset any further defections.In collaboration with Congress, JMM leaders, including Chief Minister Hemant Soren, are focusing on retaining their prominent MLAs and preventing any shift toward the BJP. The alliance is also finalizing its election strategy, aiming to present its policies and achievements to the public with renewed vigor. (w/gsd)

Marandi demands investigation of 11 tribal deaths in Santhal

Suniti Singh

Ranchi, September 11: Jharkhand BJP president Babulal Marandi on Wednesday criticised the Hemant Soren-led state government on deaths of at least 10 members of Pahariya tribe - a primitive tribal group - in Santhal region and demanded high-level investigation .

Marandi during a press conference said, "Poor state of healthcare in the region has called for strict action against negligent doctors and hospitals."

Marandi stated that the tribal population, especially the endangered primitive tribal groups are suffering due to inadequate medical services.

"Everyday, members of the tribal community, particularly those from primitive tribal groups, are losing their lives due to lack of medical treatment yet the administration is playing blame game rather then taking responsibility," Marandi added. Sharing a recent case from Sahibganj Sadar Hospital the state BJP president said, "A six-year-old girl, Gomdi Pahadin, from Simaria village died due to dengue. Her father, Mathiyam Malto, searched for a doctor but couldn't find one."

Marandi giving another example said, "One-month pregnant woman, Princessa Maharani from the Pahadia tribe died due to the lack of an ambulance and timely medical care. Additionally, he reported that eight members of a Pahadia family in Nenagaratand village, Jamtara district have died over the past 22 days from an unknown illness."

He added that more than 10 others in the region are suffering from various diseases, stressing that many lives are being lost due to delayed medical treatment. Criticizing the Jharkhand health department Marandi accused it of corruption and claimed that officials are manipulating doctor's postings for financial gain which leaves the remote health centres without enough medical staff.

SS-UBT's Raut says 'beef' bill found in car of BJP leader's son

Mumbai, Sep 11 (IANS) In a startling allegation, Shiv Sena (UBT) MP Sanjay Raut on Wednesday claimed that a food bill with "beef cutlet"' was found in the car of state Bharatiya Janata Party President Chandrashekhar Bawankule's son, Sanket, who was involved in an alleged drunk-and-drive accident on Sunday-Monday night.

Simultaneously, SS-UBT Deputy Leader Sushma Andhare visited the Sitabuldi Police Station in Nagpur seeking details of the Audi car accident, that has sparked a huge political row with the Opposition Maha Vikas Aghadi (MVA), and accused the ruling MahaYuti of attempting a cover-up operation.

Referring to certain viral media posts, Raut contended that Sanket Bawankule and his friends had gone to the 'La Horee Deluxe Bar & Restaurant' that night for a party.

"They had ordered liquor, chicken, mutton dishes and also 'beef cutlets'. These are the people who teach us Hindutva. But they go and eat beef, then they indulge in mob lynchings or mow down people outside… They prevent others from eating non-vegetarian food in the name of Ganeshotsav and other festivals," he alleged.

"If he has the courage, then bring out this food-and-beverages bill before the public. Deputy CM Devendra Fadnavis is the worst Home Minister the state has ever seen," he demanded.

However, Nagpur Deputy Commissioner of Police, Zone II, Rahul Madane denied the allegations and said there's no mention of any 'beef' stuff in the bill.

At the Sitabuldi Police Station, Andhare asked the police station head why the car registration number was not mentioned in the FIR, to which the police said the complainant did not know it, but it was added later.

She also demanded to know why the car was shunted to the garage for repairs while the probe was still pending, why the medical examination of all the persons present in the car was not carried out and why only two occupants including the driver have been arrested so far, plus other details.

Along with her colleague Raut, Andhare has reiterated that the police were attempting to put the lid on the accident due to political pressures, and MVA allies Congress and Nationalist Congress Party-SP also slammed MahaYuti over the accident.

The developments came a day after the Nagpur police stated that though Sanket Bawankule was present in the car, he was not at the wheel, and booked driver Arjun Haware in the case.

This is the second huge embarrassment for the state BJP chief and his family in barely 10 months. Last November (2023), the SS-UBT and its MVA allies had launched a vitriolic campaign accusing Chandrashekhar Bawankule of allegedly blowing up Rs 3.5 crore in gambling at a casino in China's Macau.

Kharge promises 5 guarantees for J&K if NC-Cong alliance wins

Srinagar, Sep 11 (IANS) Congress President Mallikarjun Kharge on Wednesday promised five guarantees to the people of Jammu and Kashmir (J&K) if the Congress-National Conference (NC) alliance is voted to power in the Union Territory (UT).

He said that the promise for return of Kashmir Pandit migrants to their homes, which was made during the tenure of Manmohan Singh as the country's Prime Minister, will be fulfilled.

He also added that the OBCs will also get their rights as enshrined in the Constitution.

The Congress-NC alliance will strive for statehood and also fill all the vacancies lying vacant in various government departments in Jammu and Kashmir and promised Rs 3,000 per month to women heads of each family.

The Congress President criticised the BJP and also targeted Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

"If we had just 20 more seats in the Lok Sabha, all these people would have been in jail and they deserve to be there," he said on Wednesday during the Congress' poll rally in Anantnag district.

He noted that the BJP had stalled development in Jammu and Kashmir and had backtracked on all its poll promises.

He slammed the BJP's claim of '400 Paar' during the Lok Sabha elections, saying, "Where is your '400 paar' now? You are stuck at 240."

Kharge said that the BJP was staying in power as a minority government, adding that it was afraid of the Congress-NC alliance.

He alleged that constant revision of the BJP candidates list was evidence of the uncertainty that the Congress-NC alliance had created within the former.

Kharge accused the BJP of misleading the youth on the promise of employment.

"Deception is the only policy of the BJP for the youth of J&K. Exam paper leaks, bribes, and rampant corruption have delayed recruitment in government departments for the last four years," he alleged.

He said the BJP had stalled development in the Union Territory.

He quoted the example of a market project inaugurated 10 years ago in Anantnag, which he said had seen no progress under PM Modi-led Union government.

He said the state BJP leadership gives only speeches, but does no work.

The Congress-NC pre-poll alliance agreement has given 52 Assembly seats to the NC and 31 to the Congress to field candidates.

Streets deserted in curfew-bound 3 Manipur districts, no fresh incident reported

Imphal, Sep 11 (IANS) Manipur's capital, its adjoining localities and the three curfew-bound districts of Imphal East, Imphal West, and Thoubal wore a deserted look on Wednesday while the security forces were on a high alert to foil any attack or ethnic clashes in the state, officials said.

Apprehending fresh trouble in Imphal, and its adjoining areas, authorities on Tuesday reimposed curfew for an indefinite period in the three districts. Mobile internet services were also suspended in five districts and educational institutions closed till September 12 in view of the students' protests.

Officials said that no untoward incident was reported from anywhere in the trouble-torn state on Wednesday.

According to officials, the Civil Secretariat and a few other government offices in Imphal were functioning but the presence of employees was very thin.

Except for emergency and medical purposes, most people in the three curfew-bound districts prefer to remain indoors.

Amidst tension and fear among the people, a huge number of security forces were deployed in the sensitive, mixed population, and vulnerable areas.

A senior police official said that regular patrolling by police personnel and paramilitary troopers was underway in most places to foil any untoward incident.

"The overall situation in Imphal and other districts remained tense but under control," the official told the media.

Defying the curfew, over a thousand students staged protests in Imphal for the second day on Tuesday even as security forces lobbed teargas shells and fired in the air to disperse them. According to various student bodies, more than 55 students were injured in the clashes with the security personnel and admitted to various hospitals including the Regional Institute of Medical Sciences.

The students, who have been agitating for the removal of the Security Advisor to the government, and Director General of Police, handing over of the Unified Command charge to the state government, and withdrawal of Central forces from the state, expressed their dissatisfaction, stating that since their demands were not met, all schools and colleges will shut down indefinitely.

Delhi HC asks DU to consider 50 pc women quota in student's union polls

New Delhi, Sep 11 (IANS) The Delhi High Court on Wednesday asked the Delhi University to decide, within three weeks, on a representation demanding 50 per cent reservation for women in student's union elections.

A bench, headed by Acting Chief Justice Manmohan, though refusing to judicially examine the plea, ordered the central varsity to decide the representation moved by Shabana Hussain, an MA (Buddhist Studies) student at DU's Arts Faculty, within three weeks.

The Bench, also comprising Justice Tushar Rao Gedela, orally asked the DU administration to ensure the safety and security of women students in the election process.

The writ petition instituted before the Delhi HC highlighted that there are 53 per cent female students at DU but their political participation and representation are very low.

"To measure the progress of our democratic system, we need to measure the progress of women in our democratic system," said the plea, adding that political participation means not only exercising the right to vote but also power sharing, co-decision making, and co-policy making at all levels of governance. As female students are not adequately represented in the Delhi University Student's Union (DUSU) and College Student Unions, critical issues like sexual harassment and demand for amendment of curfew timings in hostels and many more are found missing in many party manifestos, it added.

Gadchiroli police airlift rare blood group type in chopper to revive new mom

Mumbai, Sep 11 (IANS) In a humanitarian operation, the Gadchiroli Police in Maharashtra airlifted a rare blood group type to help revive a woman who had delivered a baby two days ago in Bhamragad, a top official said here on Wednesday.

The woman, identified as Mantoshi Gajendra Chaudhary (24), hails from Arewada village in Bhamragad taluka in the tribal-dominated and Maoist-infested district, large parts of which are currently in the grip of incessant rain and floods.

According to Gadchiroli Superintendent of Police Neelotpal, the Bhamragad region has been virtually cut-off due to the heavy rain, making transportation and communication difficult.

Late on September 8, when Mantoshi went into labour, the local health officials waded through waist-deep water with help from the State Disaster Relief Force (SDRF) and somehow took her to the Bhamragad Rural Hospital where she safely deliver a baby on Monday.

However, the new mom suffered heavy loss of blood during delivery for which she urgently needed blood transfusion of at least one bag to help stabilise her frail health and revive her post-delivery.

The matter got further complicated as the patient's blood group is the rare 'B-Negative', available in barely 2 per cent of the population, and hence not easily available in most medical facilities.

Inquiries by the medics in Bhamragad revealed that there was only one bag of the rare B-Negative type available in the entire district, at the Gadchiroli District Hospital.

This proved a challenging task as owing to incessant rain and floods, most roads to and from Bhamragad were blocked, but the local health officials made frantic efforts to procure the priceless blood bag at any cost.

The Gadchiroli District Hospital made an attempt to rush the blood bag to Bhamragad by road, around 175 km away, on Monday.

Even that effort failed as most roads were in a terrible state, submerged several inches or feet, so the mission was finally aborted. Also, it was not possible to dispatch the bag by boat due to the raging floods, Neelotpal said.

As the patient, her family members and the medics waited and hoped for some miracle, the rain stopped and the weather suddenly cleared on Wednesday morning, prompting the authorities to launch another attempt to send the prized blood bag to Mantoshi.

"Fortunately, we had a helicopter which was airworthy, and we decided to deploy it to render humanitarian assistance. The chopper flew around 100 km or for 30 minutes, delivered the blood bag to the patient party, and returned safely from Bhamragad," Neelotpal told IANS.
